Ranong

The first Southern province bordering the Indian Ocean is Ranong, located some 568 kms. from Bangkok. Ranong is very famous even though it is very small occupying an area of only 3,298 square kilometres, because it is Thailand's rainiest province, and also its narrowest.

The Kra Isthmus, the narrowest part of the Malayan Peninsula is located here. Ranong is a long narrow plot of land extending 169 kms. from north to south, and only 9 kms. at its narrowest. Most of the province is rainforested mountains bordering on Chumphon to the north, Surat Thani and Phangnga to the south, Chumphon to the east and Myanmar to the northwest. Ranong is administratively divided into four Amphoes and one King Amphoe ; Amphoe Muang, Kra Buri, Kapoe, La-un and King Amphoe Suk Samran.

Ranong Attractions:

Hot Springs and Raksawarin Arboretum are near Wat Tapotharam, two kilometres east of Ranong township. The temperature of the water is about 65 degrees celcius. The deep shaded forest surrounding the hot spring is very lovely and is maintained an arboretum named "Raksa warin" by the Municipality having rest pavilions and bathrooms.

Nam Tok Punyaban Another name of this waterfall is "Nam Tok Set Takuat" located on Kra Buri - Ranong Road, 15 kms. before Ranong township area. The waterfall itself cascades from a high cliff and makes a refreshing rest stop for motorist touring along the south.

Nam Tok Ngao This waterfall is located 12 kms. south of Ranong township area where the whole stream cascades from a high mountain and can be seen afar. The beautiful scenery of mountains and pastures is visible from the resting area near the fall. Nam Tok Ngao is in the area of Khlang Phrao National Park.

Hat Chan Damri situated near km. 8 on the Highway 4004 (Ranong - Pak Name Route) from Ranong municipality with a 1 km. right turn along a hillside road, the small beach stretches near the mouth of Maenam Kra Buri where various natural attractions such as Ko Song, Victoria Point, and several other cataracts are scattered. A marvellous scene of sunset can also be appreciated there.

Victoria Point Right across the La - un River, opposite Ranong is a small town of Myanmar, Victoria Point. Its main attractions are local products and souvenirs which are available for tourists with reasonable price. The place is accessible within half an hour by mean of boat which is available at Ranong Landing for about $200 - 300, but prior immigration formality must first go through.

Ko Phayam This Island is a two hours boat trip from Ranong Landing. It is a location of a pearl raising farm and many households of Chao Le Tribal people (sea gypsy). In this area, there are many other islands suitable for fishing and diving; Ko Sin Hai, Ko Chang, etc. One can hire the boat from Paknam Ranong for about $1,500 - 2,000 per day, or contact tourist boat organized by Jansom hot spa Ranong Hotel.

Laem Son National Park From Ranong township along Phetchakasem Road at km. 657, turn right another 10 kms. is the Laem Son National Park. With its area of over 315 square kilometers, the park includes beautiful beaches, island and fascinating coral reef. Accommodations in the park are available in the form of bungalows and prior reservation is needed by contacting the National Park Division Tel. 579 - 0529, 579 - 4842

Tham Phra Khayang is located at km. 564 on Highway No. 4, 12 kms. from township area. An old legend links it to the establishment of Kra Buri town. Beautiful stalactite and stalagmite formations can be seen and it is said that there is Lek Lai (a special iron element believed to be elastic and flexible like wax) in this cave too. Isthmus of Kra The narrowest part of the Malayan Peninsula is located here approximately at Km. 545 of Highway No. 4. The scenery visible from the view - point here is the Kra Buri River, the nature border line between Thailand and Myanmar.
